

Personal Blog Launch

So I've had a subdomain that's been in the works and in the shadows for a while. The purpose was to give some of my audience what they asked for, an deep inside look of the person "Sir Vice" of Limits Unleashed. The content is therefore more personal and about the lifestyle only in as much as the worlds collide.

That said, I'm still very much a private person and don't enjoy spotlights or self aggrandizing. Most of what I do is thinking and exploring things that make me curious, taps into a passion, or fuels my imagination. Posts then are more about personal observations, philosophies, and interests such as music, film, literature, and the like. They'll also likely going to be shorter than my typical posts, though not always.

If you're interested take a look at the Blog page – there you will get a glimpse as to what's Inside Limits Unleashed..
